

What are your ideas?

Teenagers have to spend a big part of their day in school. But what do they do in the afternoon, when school lessons have ended? How can they use their free time in a good way?

Here are some ideas, how students at middle-school should spend their free time:

When students come home from school, they should do their homework and learn for at least 2 hours. If they spend their time on hobbies or video games, they get bad grades.

Sitting in school for hours makes you tired. So, after school, students should first get some fresh air and practice a sport.

After school, I go home, eat with my family and watch television, all day long!

Students should spend their free time learning things, they don't learn at school. For example, they can learn how to play an instrument, like the piano or the guitar.

What do you think? How should students spend their free time after school?

- 👉 How much time should students spend on homework and learning? Why?
- 👉 Is it important for students to have time for hobbies? Why?
- 👉 What do you do after school? How do you spend your free time and why?
